Did you know . . .

Firefighters are at a greater risk of contracting cancer than the average citizen due to the toxins to which they are exposed in the line of duty as they risk their lives to save others, yet all too often they don't get the critical support they need when battling the disease. There are many firefighters who, at this moment, are: struggling to get proper medical care; stay on top of mounting medical bills; keep their homes; and support their families. 70% of America's firefighters are volunteer, and even those who are paid a salary or have medical insurance often face seemingly insurmountable struggles when battling cancer.

Code 3 for a Cure® was formed based on the conviction that no firefighter should endure what many of them do when faced with cancer. There is not an adequate system in place to ensure firefighters consistently receive the critical health care and support they need in battling a disease caused by the very heroics they performed. That is why Code 3 for a Cure exists. To read more or to find out how you can help, visit www.c3fac.org.
